A. Goddard and wife, of this paper, with other friends, were given extra cause for thankfulness on Thanksgiving day. A dinner at the private boarding house presided over by Mr. Lane and his excellent wife. The table almost groaned under the weight of the big turkeys and many other good things, for everything, both dainty and substantial, in the eating line was spread out upon that table and the guests invited to eat and be merry. Right royally did they respond, but the dinner, like the widow's oil and meal, seemed never to grow less. All went away praising the hospitality of the host and hostess. May Lane's Private Boarding House live long and prosper is the wish of every guest who was present.

A man by the name of Province has been working for Esq. Trotter, of near Bank, and Friday he came to town and presented two orders one for a suit of clothes, which he got at A. K. Harpers and the other to Maj. McTeer for $15, which he also received. The orders had Mr. Trotter's name to them and the writing looked very much like Mrs. Trotter, who is Maj. McTeer's sister. Province, whose home is at Strawberry Plains, claimed that his brother had taken suddenly sick and was about to die and as Mr. Trotter did not have the money at hand he gave these orders, which were to be paid soon. Province was caught at Knoxville Tuesday, Sheriff Walker going after him. Mr. Trotter came in Monday and exposed the game.

At a meeting of the Blount Co. Commissioners of the State Centennial Exposition, held at the Y. M. C. A. Hall Monday afternoon, among other things the following were appointed as chairmen of the committees named below: Agricultural Exhibits J. C. Howard, Horticultural Exhibits G. W. Walker, Mineral, Marble and Slate Exhibits T. R. Lee, Wood Exhibits (hard and soft) J. H. Pickens, Manufactured Products W. T. Parham, Dairy Products S. R. Waller, Ladies Fancy work and Exhibits Miss Johnnie Cates, Mottos and Pictorial Exhibits Miss Mollie Caldwell, Flowers and Floriculture Miss Minnie McGhee, Indian and Historic relics Mrs. M. T. W. McTeer, Sketch of County, resources, Mrs. R. N. Hood, Space and Grounds Hon. S. P. Rowan, Transportation and R. R. Hon. C. T. Cates, Printing and Printed matter Jo Burger. These chairmen are authorized to associate with them any who can help them in their department. It was also decided to have a mass-meeting of all the citizens in the near future.

Nothing but Volcaline.

Now that the various committees to collect and prepare the County's exhibits for the coming Tennessee Centennial Exposition, at Nashville Sept. 1st to Dec. 1896, are all ready to enter upon their work with boundless enthusiasm. Surely every citizen in the county has enough of county pride, to want to make our (Blount) County's exhibit, what we can make it, the very best in the State. Then let every such citizen, without regard to race or sex, begin now, to prepare the very best exhibit, that you can possibly contribute to the said exposition and, at once, inform the chairman of the Committee having charge of that department to which your exhibit may properly belong, of your intention, and do not fail to carry out your intention, and the success of Blount County's exhibit is already assured, and the money to defray the necessary expense of our exhibit will not be far to seek.—

Simply Volcaline.

We have received a letter from Mr. T. Thomas, of Indiana, inquiring about Maryville and the surrounding country. Maryville is a town of 2,000 or more, inhabitants. We have two good Woolen Mills, which have all they can do; a Creamery which pays our farmers cash for all their milk, a large roller process flour mill, with an excellent reputation; two other good flour mills, so the farmers have a home market for their corn and wheat; two sash, door and blind factories, which furnish building material for neighboring states; we have a college, which is acknowledged to be among the best institutions of learning in the south; a normal and preparatory school for whites, which is among the best; a college for colored people, which is doing a grand work; two excellent public schools, one for white and the other for colored children; we have seven churches and no saloons; our grocery, general merchandise and furniture stores can easily supply the trade. As to the surrounding country, we have good farming lands which average about $20 per acre. This county is rich in the finest marble and we have slate enough in the county to supply the world for many years. We have iron ore in considerable quantities and our timber is almost inexhaustible. The writer asks in regard to politics. This county has in the neighborhood of 3,500 voters and about 800 of these are democrats of the best kind. There are about 175 pops and prohibits, all of them the best the two parties can afford. We welcome men of all political faiths and assure them they will be treated fair and square.

AMONG THE CHURCHES.

Union Thanksgiving services were held at the Baptist church, Rev. G. W. Jackson, of the M. E. church, South, presiding. Rev. Moore, of the Presbyterian church, opened the services with prayer. Rev. L. S. Tuller, of the M. E. church, preached an excellent sermon suitable to the occasion. Rev. Sam'l. Haworth, of the Friends church, and Dr. Bartlett followed with appropriate remarks. Presiding Elder Ruble, of the Knoxville district closed the services with prayer and Dr. Stanley pronounced the benediction, which closed a very pleasant service. Rev. Jackson is an excellent presiding officer as he does not allow a meeting to drag and closes in time for the good dinners waiting for all on that day.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

F. E. MOORE Pastor.

In the absence of the Pastor, (assisting in Communion services at Taber church), Rev. P. M. Bartlett, D. D., delivered a scholarly and highly instructive discourse on the "Resurrection." Dr. Bartlett has prepared his paper with great care in answer to an invitation from the ministers-meeting of Knoxville, and we have heard many expressions of gratification at the way in which he answered the numerous questions arising in the contemplation of this great theme.

The Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Society held its annual "Thank-offering and Praise meeting" at 2:30 o'clock last Sabbath afternoon. A fair audience was in attendance, although we should have been pleased to see more of the male members present. An interesting program was presented and a collection taken as a "Thank-offering" unto God for His favor during this year and the encouraging outlook for missions. We hope to make this meeting a special feature in our work each year, and that through it the entire membership may be aroused to deeper interest in the church's mission work.

Maryville College

The Second term will open on Thursday, January 2, 1896.

Those who have been students in previous years need merely to be assured that the customary high standard of work will be maintained. Those who have not been students heretofore, may secure all needed information by addressing--The Registrar, Maryville College, Maryville, Tenn.

M. E. CHURCH

L. S. FULLER, Pastor

We desire to express our sincere thanks through the columns of the TIMES for the very liberal donation given us at our home last Tuesday night. Also for the most enjoyable social hour that followed.—L. S. Fuller and wife.

Sunday eve after a special sermon by the pastor, who took as his subject the motto of the Epworth League, "Look up, Lift up," the league had a devotional meeting conducted by Thos. Maguire, of England, who has attended the Moody Bible Institute and is now in Maryville College. The church was glad to welcome Rev. Moore and quite a number of his congregation to the service.

The Thank-offering service at the church Thanksgiving night was largely attended and all seemed to be well pleased with the program. Offerings were made and the giver wrote some reason for being thankful. Quite a large collection was the result. The literary part of the program was enjoyed. The junior league was represented by Leila Cooper and Effie Huffstetler, while Miss Belle Henry and Mrs. C. L. Parham, represented the Epworth League. Rev. Fuller, who is an accomplished Elocutionist, rendered "The Creed of the Bells," which is one of the hardest tests of the elocutionist. His rendition of it was as good as the best. The little Kindergarten children sang two songs which greatly pleased and captured the audience. Leila Cooper and Carrie Bittle each rendered an instrumental piece of music. Rev. J. A. Ruble the closed entertainment with one of his pleasing and sensible addresses. It was a pleasant and fitting close of a day of thanksgiving.

KIND WORDS.

About Maryville from a former pastor of the M. E. Church.

With much regret, on the morning of Nov. 1st, we bade adieu to Maryville, that we had learned to love so fondly, and turned our faces toward Harriman, where we arrived on the night train. We were met at the depot with conveyance by Mr. J. C. Gass, and driven to his elegant home, where we received royal entertainment, until we had adjusted matters in our own home. It was no light task to sunder the relations that had existed between us and our dear people at Maryville. Our own Methodist people are in our hearts to live forever. The other churches are scarcely below them in our love. Every association there, to us was pleasant. The tramp of the thronging students of bright boys and girls, along College street, was like a "dear old song of other days." The familiar old college bell, and the church bells, had become to us like the "Bells of Shandon." To say nothing of the unbounded kindness of my own dear people. I can never forget the kindness of my pastoral colleagues, of the President Faculty and students of Maryville college, of the business men, in the stores, banks and factories, and even of the "abominable court house ring," and not the least among any of these the "Maryville Times" that has said so many kind things of me. To all let me say I appreciate it, and hold you in "memory dear." But what of Harriman? Well Harriman is a bustling little city already full of enterprise and wide awake. Situated on the great C. S. Railroad, also on an arm of the Southern running down from Knoxville, and the terminus of the H. C. & I., running out to the Brushy Mountain coal fields, also on the Tennessee Central, soon to be completed, and with the smoke of its numerous factories ascending up forever and ever, it is destined to be a city of ten thousand people in the near future, I think. Here is the "American Temperance University," the only school, on all the land, founded upon the one thought of Temperance. It is already a full fledged college, of numerous bright boys and girls, and has a splendid faculty. Its present endowment is the untiring and energetic Dr. Spence. In the work of a college president, he is a Prince among the very best. The grade of work done in this school is of a high order. Harriman is justly proud of her University. The public school is a model one. Well graded, with a competent corps of well qualified teachers, in a modern building filled with students, it runs nine months in the year. We have two daily papers and several weeklies. One good thing that can be said of Harriman is, that there are no saloons here, and can never be. Think of it, Harriman to be a city of thousands in the coming years, and not a saloon in it. Will it not be an El Dorado of human desire? How desirable for a home. Beyond all question Harriman and Maryville are the two best places in the world. We think that Hugh has improved by the change. We live on Byrd Street, and our door stands open wide, to all Maryville people when they come to Harriman. Our work? Strong live Epworth Leagues, a large Sunday School, a splendid prayer meeting and great congregations. We are pleased. We are indebted to Mr. W. P. Hood for courtesies over his road, and for securing the same for us over the Southern. I promised to return and do some clerical work for him in the future with all the extra touches. Mr. McKinzie and Mr. Will McGinley at the depot showed us much kindness. Our thanks are to them. To Maryville let me say, "With all my faults I love thee still."—J. C. WRIGHT.
